

NELSON J. DAVIS, a charismatic actor in his mid-30s, sits across from his agent, BRAD MORGAN, a slick and confident man in his 40s. The office is adorned with framed posters of Nelson's past films, each a testament to his success.

BRAD

How was your flight?

NELSON

It was good no complaints.

BRAD

Good, well I'm glad I got you to come to the office first. Here take this.

Brad hands over a contract to Nelson for his role in a new movie called Battle Cry.

NELSON

(excitedly)

Brad, can you believe it? "Battle Cry" with Spike Singleton here in Atlanta! This is huge!

BRAD

(grinning)

Absolutely, Nelson. This is the kind of project that can elevate your career to the next level. Spike's script is pure gold, and with your talent leading the charge, we're looking at a potential game-changer.

Nelson nods enthusiastically, a hint of pride in his eyes.

NELSON

And the best part is, I'm back back home for this. I haven't done any acting here since Forbidden Fruit 1 and 2.

BRAD

(nodding approvingly)

Atlanta's going to welcome you with open arms. Your roots run deep here, and now you have the chance to showcase your talent in front of your hometown crowd.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

Nelson's smile widens at the thought.

NELSON

I can't wait to immerse myself in the energy of the city again. And you know what's funny? My high school reunion is that Same week we start production on Battle Cry.

Brad's eyes light up with excitement, seeing an opportunity.

BRAD

(leaning forward)

Nelson, that's perfect! Your reunion coinciding with the filming—it's serendipity. Imagine the publicity we could generate by having you attend. It's a golden opportunity to reconnect with your past while promoting the film.

Nelson hesitates, a mix of nostalgia and uncertainty crossing his face.

The Peoples Network

NELSON

It's been so long since I've seen any of them. What if they think I've changed too much?

BRAD

(reassuringly)

Nelson, you're still the Same genuine guy from Atlanta who worked hard to chase his dreams. This is your chance to show them how far you've come while staying true to your roots. Plus, the media will eat it up—it's a win-win.

Nelson considers Brad's words.

NELSON

You know what? You're right, Brad. It's time to embrace where I came from and celebrate how far I've come. Let's make this reunion part of the "Battle Cry" journey.

Brad grins, knowing they've just made a smart move.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

BRAD

That's the spirit, Nelson. Get ready, because with "Battle Cry" and your hometown reunion, we're about to make headlines like never before.

Nelson nods.

\

The Peoples Network